

Community and Facilities

The word community crops up again and again when talking about retirement villages.

What is this enigmatic thing called 'a sense of community'? It has been described as the feeling of belonging; knowing that you matter to one another and to the group as a whole.

Friendship and sharing are some of life's most precious things and you will find them in abundance in a place like Wattle Grove. But this closeness and caring doesn't mean everyone lives in each others' pockets, far from it, everyone respects each-others need for privacy. It's sort of like having an extended family - only better!

Wattle Grove offers you as much privacy or social interaction as you want. And when you do feel like getting together with the other residents what better place to do it than in Wattle Grove's own community centre; a place that has something for everyone.

A large comfortable lounge, a quiet reading area - complete with library, a home theatre to enjoy sporting events or movies, a computer room with internet facilities and a billiard table.

A fully equipped kitchen can cater for all sorts of celebrations &ndash; birthday parties, anniversaries and festive occasions.

Have the whole family over for a Sunday barbecue or invite friends around to dance the night away!

Maybe you just want to chill out, relax and spend lazy afternoons having a drink and playing cards, strolling around the grounds or walking along the Muttama Creek to feed the ducks.

Whatever &ndash; it's all about choice &ndash; yours.
